

Dr Ghassan Ayoubi

MD MsCOphth MRCOphth MsC LRS CLRS RCOphth FRCS

Dr Ayoubi obtained his initial medical degree in Aleppo, Syria, in 1984. He did one year's training in Paediatrics and then took an Ophthalmology training post at Aleppo University.

Dr Ayoubi came to the UK in 1986 and took training Ophthalmology posts in the Royal Hallamshire Hospital in Sheffield; East Glamorgan General Hospital; St Wools Hospital in South Wales; Ipswich Hospital, Suffolk and Chesterfield Hospital, Bristol.

As well as his work in the field of refractive surgery, Dr Ayoubi has been involved in numerous research projects, audits and publications. He also has a special interest in paediatric and refractive ophthalmology.

His formal qualifications include membership of the Royal College of Ophthalmologists, Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, holding two Masters of Science Degrees, one in Ophthalmology from Bristol University, and one in Laser Refractive Surgeries from Ulster University. Dr Ayoubi was also one of the first doctors to pass the Certificate of Laser Refractive Surgeries from the Royal College of Ophthalmologists.

In addition to his work with Optimax, Dr Ayoubi works at King Edward VII Hospital in Windsor. Since joining Optimax, Dr Ayoubi has performed more than 12,000 Laser Refractive Surgeries.

Dr Ayoubi joined Optimax in 2001.